

let / const → memory

Temporal dead zone

console.log(x) → reference error x can't be accessed before it's declared

let x = 20

console.log(p) → undefined

var p = 20

console.log(p) → 20

let / const

const p = 20

console.log(p)

#

console.log(p) → reference error p is not defined.